LETTER TO THE EDITOR

STUDENT APATHY AT ATC

by J.T.

This is an open letter concerning student apathy at Canton A.T.C. As an incoming student, I am looking forward to leaving this place. I think this is a very sad statement. Aren't your college years supposed to be some of the best years of your life? Well, here at Canton, that's not the case. I will be transferring to a "real" college. What do I consider a "real" college? For one, it has the majority of students college age. All I seem to see here is older commuters. Fine, I'm glad you want to further your education to late in life, but I pay for this school too. I don't want to attend classes and walk down the halls and see little children. Get a babysitter or stay home. If you wanted to see staff like this, I would have gone to a community college at home. They want to enroll the down in dorms. Why are the dorms überfilled? I had an experience of being in the dorms my first semester. On one occasion in R.A., we sat there to check my bags at the front door looking for alcohol. I consider this an invasion of my privacy. They insist it's perfectly legal. Do you think they do this at other schools? Probably not. You come to college and live in the dorms to be on your own, to grow up away from mom and dad. If you screw up or fail out, it's nobody else's fault but your own. I do believe student apathy is a problem at Canton, and think that are just a few of the reasons their lives have taken. These things may not be true for students apart from the traditional students but there are many other things that make them look toward a functioning cohesive unit.

I feel now is the proper time for my personal experiences to be interleaved. When I attended a class I feel, and was treated no different from any other student in the class. I am 22 years old and thoroughly enjoyed interacting with younger students I mingle with every day. They bring me a sense of energy that I formerly seemed to have lost and hope that I may help provide some of them with the sense of direction they are looking for. In either case I feel it is a very positive symbolic relationship: ~A&h Canton ATC would be much the poorer for not having. In conclusion let me say that Canton ATC will always have a special place in my heart. No matter where I go or what I do I will never forget the obligation I owe to this school. I firmly believe it is one of the finest institutions in the state. The faculty is totally committed to the student body. They will bend over backward to help each and every student achieve his/her goals. A more caring group of individuals I have never met before, and I wonder if I ever will again. Thank you college for changing its focus toward the student body as a whole and each student in particular.

Response To "Student Apathy At ATC"

by Patrick Kelley

This is a rebuttal letter written in response to the letter which appeared in the March 16th issue of the Insight, the topic of the letter being Student Apathy. I am addressing this letter to the author of the one I am writing this about, a man who wishes to be known as "J.T.".

In your letter about student apathy, you stated that this is a problem here at Canton ATC, and you gave a few reasons for this problem. Myself, and certainly almost all of the people, do not agree with these reasons. You are blaming two very important groups of people on this campus for the problem: Non-traditional commuter students, or "older commuter", and RA's.

I would like to deal with the first group, the Non-trad commuter. You stated that you "don't want to attend classes and walk down halls and see little children." The children of these commuters are no big a problem. Are they making you late for class? They really don't get in my way when I'm going to class or when I'm walking around in the Student Union. I don't really see how they could be a problem for you. Also, "Get a babysitter or stay home" may not win you a Pulitzer Prize, but I guarantee that it hasn't won you too many friends, either. So, don't go blaming these people for this problem.

The second group of people you men- tioned as being one of the reasons why the problem with student apathy exists are the RA's. The RA's are here to do a job, and that is to make life as easy on our parents as possible. More than this, they have to keep some kind of order. The probable reason they searched your bags for alcohol at the time was because they suspected that you were in possession of alcohol. You also stated that this problem doesn't happen in other schools. WRONG. I attended another college for a year before coming here, and I can remember being searched for things that I come into the dorms on several occasions. Why did you complain about this? Were you trying to hide something? Officially, it is illegal to possess alcoholic beverages in the dorms. What would you have done had you been caught? I was not taken to your college for possession of alcohol in your possession? Complain to resident life. While you were doing that, they would have been taking dis- ciplinary action against you for pos- session of alcohol in the dorm. Further- more, you would have dug yourself into a bigger hole because you were trying to sneak it in. Think about that. I have to admit that you did have some good points in your letter. How- ever, it was the way you approached those points that I did not agree with. Instead of being an arrogant - and, in complaining about these problems, you should be trying to find a solution to this problem. Yes, to some people, the children of the older commuters are a problem, but "get a babysitter or stay home" is not the proper way to approach it. Perhaps you could have suggested opening a day-care center for these children. Unfortunately, you approac- hed the problem you way, as if it was as it was. I commend you on having the courage to write such a letter. How- ever, I would not want you to be in your shoes for the rest of this semester.

Dear J.T. and all others who feel this way!

We sometimes can not afford a babysit- ter or they do not show at the last minute.

You people are lucky to be in a time of grants and welfare for single parents. There was another such thing going on when we were college age as you refer to.

Our task is much greater than yours, on it is to laugh for us with children. You say little children bother you well we sometimes can not afford a babysit- ter or they do not show at the last minute.

Some adult learners are there for a two-fold purpose. To require an education and help you younger people realize you need your education now, not later on when you have families.

Also remember, we are always there when you younger ones need help with your studies and personal problems. Our 18-80 age group keeps your morals and chins up and we are the first ones to tell you when you are down or having a problem.

It was not all our own faults we are single parent mothers because our spouses could not accept the responsi- bilities that we had to carry for them and this is nothing but a way of showing. I am proud to be an adult learner and be able to help our future generations of career minded people such as you.

To dean grade us, we are always there to help you as us or your- selves is a sick in the back. If you think it is a breeze being an Adult Learner; you are most welcome to walk in my shoes for a day to see how it feels! No matter where you go, whatever you do, walk with Jesus in your life. As he said on the cross: "Forgive them for they do not know not what they do."

Happy Easter all: Good luck Grades!

"HANDS ON AMERICA"

On May 1st, 1997, 18 people will place their hands on a new Dollar Omni America. The person who keeps his hand on the car the longest will win the automobile. And during the entire promo-motional run, organizers hope to raise substantial donations for the Central New York Ronald McDonald House in Syracuse. This event is called "Hands On America."

The automobile will be moving from community to community in Northern New York to allow everyone to see the prize. People can drop their registration eiciency and donation in the back seat of the car. From all the registrations, 18 contestants will be chosen to participate in the Hands-On-A-Thon for a chance to win the car.

The first raffle events follow by one year, the extremely successful "Hands Across The Border" which raised in excess of $16,000, for needy in the United States, Canada, and families in strictest countries in Africa. The Hands-On-Thon was so successful last year, we felt keeping a similar theme would help us in raising funds for the Ronald McDonald House and at the same time make someone dreams come true by awarding them a car as "Rick DeFrance, Operations Manager of WLBS-WPAC radio in Ogdensburg, a co-chairperson of the event."

"Hands On America" is co-sponsored by WLBS-WPAC Radio and Blenis Brothers Chrysler, Plymouth, Dodge dealership in Ogdensburg. "Six year ago the American people gave Chrysler Corporation and the Blenis Family the opportunity to continue business. With that opportunity, Chrysler has emerged as a world class leader. ILLITERACY A PROBLEM?

By Jane Daniels

With a nation wide campaigns the struggle against functional illiteracy, a problem of the status quo, will, may be combated. We hear about ill-

literacy our public always seems to have nothing to work on. To examine functional illiteracy we must first define the word literacy...

"Hunter and Harman wrote this definition of literacy in 1965. "It is the possession of skills perceived as necessary by particular persons and groups to fill-fill their own role determinate their place in family and community members, citizens, consumer, job-holders, and as members of social, religious, or other associations of their choosing. This includes the ability to obtain information they want and to use that information for their own and others' well-being; the ability to read and write adequately to satisfy the requirements they set for themselves as being important for their own role; the ability to feel positively with demands made on them by society; and the ability to solve the problems they face in their daily lives," (Adult Literacy In The United States, p. 7-40).

These skills which use a literate society take for granted, make functionally illiterate adults feel demoral-ed and inadequate when pressured in read. Because of society's view, these people are generally not a good to holding their disabilities while working. By relying on family and friends many functionally illiterate adults lead nor-tional lives, while others wish to be independent.

With the ever changing technology in industries, offices, and schools, a job promotion can be a necessity for a person with a reading deficit. These people will either seek professional help when a new position is offered to them, become submissively allowing the job promotion to pass them by. With this problem also comes a lower pay grade or he or she could earn if they were part of our literate society.

The ones that are looking for help in their search through churches, schools, and other organizations. Unfortunately, only a small fraction of people are putting these facilities to good use.

Through referrals, radio, and tele-tv advertisements more people are becoming aware of the agencies that can help them, such as Literacy Volunteers.

Literacy Volunteers have been working in conjunction with our surrounding schools to combat this problem and help functionally illiterate adults through tutoring, functional skill training, as well as classes structured for the individuals learning experiences and capabilities. Through this approach more adults are finding they can be integral part of our fast paced society.

I believe that Hunter and Harman stated it best when the quoted Bra-

"Economists around the world are increasingly defining education as a life-process with recurrent access to educational services. One of the educational goals of this movement is to shift responsibility for the pursuit of learning to the individual", (Adult Literacy In The United States, p. 7-42). Possibly, in time, the problem of functional illiteracy can be eradicated, but until we all start accepting responsibility for our own educations, the problem of functional illiteracy will be with us.

Guaranteed Student Loans - Don't Bet on Them!

Are you one of those students who does little financial planning? Are you confident that just your team application, a few quick signatures and a tax return can get you into school? If you answered YES to these questions, then you may be in for a rude awakening this summer. New Federal regulations for the Guaranteed Student Loan program mean more paperwork and reduced loans for many students. "Now What?" you ask. Well, here's the new scope:

1) All students applying for a Guaranteed Student Loan (GSL) must first complete a Needs Analysis application, either an FASFA or FAF. The Family Financial Statement (FFS) takes approximately 3-4 weeks to process. The Financial Aid Form (FAF) takes 5-6 weeks to process. Therefore, your loan application cannot be done overnight, it will take at least 3 weeks, and perhaps as long as 6 weeks.

2) Regulations concerning student eligibility to receive a GSL have changed. Practically, only those families with incomes of $30,000 or more are expected to contribute to the student's educational costs. Nearly all families are expected to contribute. Here are two examples to show how this new regulation may affect you.

The Financial Aid office must certify each application for items (1)-(4). These examples tell us this:

In 1946-87, Dan was eligible to borrow the maximum GSL, $3200. ($5610 item (1), cost of ed., $2500 item (2), Fin. Aid Asst. & item 4, family contribution equals $2100, 76% of $2772). However, Dan's situation will change in 1987-88. Not only has his cost of education increased, but his loan eligibility amount has been reduced due to the new family contribution regulation. ($5610 item (1) - $2400 item (2) - $2000 item (4) equals $1200 need for loan). As you can see, Mr. Ignatz, the independent student, is in even more trouble. In 1987-88, his GSL need is only $562 equals $1783 (item 1, $7702 minus item 4, $3300). In previous years, $2500 could have borrowed the maximum GSL. Please note that these examples were computed using both actual and estimated data. No student should calculate his/her eligibility based only on this information. If you are concerned about your status, you should check with the Financial Aid Office.

Reasons for wanting to be President.

"I would like to be SAC President because I view the position as an excellent opportunity for personal growth as well as a chance to continue being involved with campus activities. As an RA I feel I have developed skills in dealing with fellow students and decision making that could benefit an SAC President."

Wendell P. Goodspeed

"I would like to be elected to the office of SAC President so that I can help the students and campus grow together as one. I plan to make campus activities more interesting so that more students are willing to get involved. I want to continue and uphold the job that has been done in the past. My participation in many clubs and sports for the past two years, including Student Aid Transport, ASCET, Lacrosse and Intramural hockey soccer, have taught me the importance of cooperation and leadership. Since I have been a SAC senator for the past year, I have been exposed to the duties and responsibilities of the President. I am a potential candidate for the Presidential position because of my experiences and extra-curricular activities. I would very much appreciate your support. Thank you."

"The office of President of the SCA requires involvement, and involvement goes hand in hand with commitment. Commitment to ideals, to excellence and to people. Commitment is evidenced by actions, and this thought prompted me to become actively involved in student government as a Senator for the SCA, a position I've held since the Fall semester of 1986. As a Senator, I've kept superman in my mind the motto of the State University of New York, "Let each become all they are capable of being." This includes not only access to a quality education, but also access to social and cultural enrichment, your Student Activity Fee provides for the money, services, and equipment necessary to promote social and cultural events, in addition to supporting clubs, groups and organizations. The distribution of this fund is overseen by the SCA and, you deserve to have every dollar's worth of your money exercised to the full and last amount of value, for the benefit of a maximum amount of people. As a Senator, I've participated in the process necessary for the distribution of these funds, in addition to serving on the Judicial Review board and on the Dining Services Committee. I'm also an active member of both CUB and SAT along with being a tutor. My involvement with student activities started shortly after entering Onondaga Community College, where I was a student Senator prior to taking office as Director of Public Relations for the Onondaga Student Services Association Inc. I was also an active member of both the Emergency Services Organization and the Outing Club. While a member of the outing Club, I was chairman of the Menu Planning and Purchasing Committee, the compbook, Number Two First Aid Personnel, and personally recruited sixty-two new members in the course of two semesters. As a result of my perseverance in the promotion of academic excellence and a well-rounded social and cultural experience for every student, I was awarded a Certificate of Outstanding and Meritorious Service by the O.C.C. Outing Club, a Certificate of Outstanding Service in Public Relations, and also received the Outstanding Contribution to Student Government Award for 1985-86. Let the record speak for itself. Those who know me, know that I'm a dedicated advocate and facilitator of beneficial social growth and change, and that I'll work hard to see that you receive the maximum benefit of your money. I'm running for the office of President of the SCA and, with your vote, I can do that job, and I'll do it well. Whether you vote for me or for another contender, please do vote. You have a right to a voice in Student Government, to exercise that right. Remember, it's your money. Thank You.

Reasons for wanting to be Vice President:

"As Vice President I would be working with the other officers to represent our school in the best possible way. I am currently a senator and I attend regular meetings. I am also on the committee for reviewing the constitution, and for next year I enjoy working with others on a team and I feel that the position of Vice President is similar in being on the same team. I feel that I can be responsible and support being an leader for the student body. After speaking to the present officers, I feel that I am a good candidate for Vice president for the school year of 1987-88. I feel that I can represent SCA, Student Cooperative Alliance, in a respectable way."

Victoria Hallock
Business Administration
Smith E-203

Reasons for wanting to be Budget Director:

"I am applying for the position of Student Cooperative Alliance Budget Director for the 1987. I will try to help Cantor, ATC with some of my ideas. Business Administration is my curriculum and I feel this will help benefit college's budget. This position will also better my studies of business operations. My experience consists of two majors in high school in business and secretarial courses. I was also a member of our student council for two years. I have also worked for three years in small retailing establishments which help in knowing how a budget is run.

If I am appointed SCA Budget Director I will do my best to live up to the expectations of the college."

ATHLETIC DIRECTOR

David R. LeFort
Criminal Justice
Smith S-205
Ballston Lake, NY

Reason for wanting to be Athletic Director:

"The reason I would like to be the Budget Director of the Student Cooperative Alliance is so I can assure the student body that there will be no misappropriation of funds. I feel that in the past year, the Student Cooperative Alliance has handled funds in a responsible manner and that money was not wasted on counterproductive enterprises. I feel that this trend should continue through the next year and I am sure that I can fulfill this obligation.

In the past, I have been entrusted with a position of accounting for monetary contributions to an organization consisting of 1,600 families. I was also, in the past two years, in a position of Program Assistant in a youth soccer program in which there were approximately 300 children. I am currently the Production Director of the campus radio station, WATC, and have donated much of my time to improve this Alliance and a volunteer for Student Aid Transportation. I would like you to consider me as a candidate for the position of Student Cooperative Alliance Budget Director for the academic year of 1987 to 1988 on the grounds stated above and for the simple reason that I would enjoy working hard on something that I believe in - SCA."

BUGGAR and PHLEGM HEAVEN
by Bill Brown

There are a number of problems on campus that have an impact on student welfare and productivity. The most blaring loud enough to push the moon and your concentration on higher-level thinking, and the shortage of clothes washers and dryers so that one has to place an "out of order" sign on the lid of these machines before breaking their endless cycle and gaining access to their one. I am concerned with a more serious problem however, that is creating great potential as a health hazard: the dis-"placing of phlegm from the throat and nasal cavity of the student to the paused walkways on campus.

Not only is there the obvious factor of slipping in the unattended, purty-fancy-"consistency globs of conjugation, but also the threat of spreading contagious bacteria and viruses along the trails. Granted, in the winter when the drowsy white and cold have frozen the brain into a state of hopeless depression and the glimmering bonfires of summer seem so far away and dim, one on A in calculus, the random little leaf green splatters do remind one of the tender shoots that the not-come-for-topping storm will send forth into the world. Buggers provide incentive for us to wait that white and cold and time. But one cannot find that same encouragement in the fuming aluminum beer cans that are mulled down every Saturday and Sunday morning before the merry-science students gather them up to help pay for a field trip to the sky and study the reconstructed curse of Librae. And beer cans are not easy to slip on as golfers.

Say you were out for a jog, and for some unknown reason found yourself spinning through the air like some unwise autumn leaf, you slipped. Most people would blame this in terms of some error on the trail getting some exercise too, but worm guts are gritty, and therefore prone to an in good deal of friction, so the excuse of squishing the dirt-ers and slipping on them does not apply. What happened was that you ran into a slippery egg-yolk-like puddle that someone had dropped up from a donut place in that body and off-blottered slathered into the trail, causing you to fall and be the butt of many gross jokes, because slipping on a buggy is pretty funny. But it's also dangerous, and that's what I'm concerned about:

It's worms that are the real problem that can be gathered up and sold to fisher-"man and the process can be done to a scholarship fund. But buggers? That would be quite the work-study job, right on the walkways scraping pudders up with a spud. And what would you need to do to have the man be too interested. And even if they were, what student would like to be the recipient of a奖学金 titled Salagod Naval Drippings Award? I mean it sounds like you weren't given money for having the world record in collecting buggers off the streets; hang in jars of them in your collar, pickled, spiced, salted, fermented... it's just not the kind of scholarship that would have any prestige attached to it.

Slipping is one thing, and a good rea-son to ban expelling diseased projects.

WHAT HAPPENS NEXT?
by Holly Kleinholz

Next year, the dorm residents will be faced with more problems than usual. The cause is mandatory housing, which puts triplets in most of the rooms.

Most of us will have run roomsmates instead of one. The rooms are not magi-cally going to get bigger, so don't think that they will. We will be cramped and the lack of our own personal space will lead to many problems.

And as the new ruling indicates the room charge will be $500.00 per semester per person instead of today's price of $850.00. So it seems as room "charges" increase, the space in a room per person decreases. Is that fair?

There are going to be grips from all sides as this will result in that triplets of grips will be the increase in the class of lines. Laundry room and Chenay food will just have to cope with.

Chenay lines will be longer because even the resident assistant's at least for a fourteen meal plan. The maximum capacity for the dorms will be 128, people for next year. That works out to about 15,792 to 21,052 meals will be served per week and supplied by Mr. Chenay for the residents. So don't plan on skipping in line because I'll be watching you.

The laundry room (present time) has many problems also. One is the washing machine line, the other is to be finished which increases the wait-"ing line of people. The laundry room consists of the washer, dryers and the three ancient ironing boards which don't work anyway. Is this enough for ninety-four people who live in one area? How about six washers and six dryers for two hundred and eighty-two people in one single dorm? I say that this is not enough for that many people. With this many people, we can expect at least a five-hour wait. So line up!

Mornings are hard enough on the resi-dents. They shouldn't have to fight for the toilet. Does anybody realize that there will be nine people per bathroom? What happens if all have to use the toilet? Do they then have to get up at 5:30 a.m. to take a shower? Also what happens during the weekends when those nine people run out of toilet paper? Do they stay home for the supper or do they bring their own in the beginning of the year? In August, don't forget toilet paper on your list for the new school year.

In regards to quiet time, there proba-bly won't be any time for studying or snoozing in the evening hours. Have a nice walk, take yourself or your roommate on any production studying next year.

What will happen in the entertain-ment in the dorms? At this time, we face a battle when we want to watch a pro-gram on the television which is supplied by the university. Every one will sit there and watch their programs in some way next year. There will be thirty-people at one time in out of the television. There isn't enough room for that many people in one small room. The compartmental style of furniture that are all will have waiting lines also. The groups will only be able to play for a short amount of time and the dorms are too small for the next group in line. There is a posi-tive aspect for more people in the dorms.

Let's look into the individual rooms. The one room that I would like to have a guest over for the night? It will probably be pretty awkward that night with your two roommates in the same room. Per-sonally conflicts will arise more fre-quently in the crowding in the rooms. Also there are only four utility cupboards per room. What happens when a room has three blow dryers on at one time? In one simple word, there is disaster. There is more of a chance to blow a fuse in that room and the adjoining rooms.

A dorm resident to the dorm is that dorm damage can be split up between the residents. But on the other hand, more people means more dorm damage.

Let's not forget about the commu-nities. Commuters are the ones lucky enough to get out of mandatory housing. At the present time, there are grips about student parking. Next year there will be more resident cars taking up the spots in the front of the parking lots. Those cars will sit there till the next vacation or at least until next the party. This will make the campus more ugly and anger because they will be pass-ing those same cars every day while they are parked at the same spot and lot. I can guarantee you that tampers will flare out after awhile.

Some of the possible remedies to this problem can be as follows:

-More washers and dryers in each unit.
-Cable TV/radio in each room to solve the crowded TV room problem
-The cost can be divided among the res-iidents as the telephone charges are. The administration can also tack charge on the semester's bill which will leave them with no expense to the college.
-Make more parking lots or at least designate the lots for commuters only or residents only.
-Supply more table games (ping pong and foosball).

STUDENT VOTING RIGHTS

by Patrick Kelley

In 1971, the twenty-sixth amendment gave eighteen year olds the right to vote. Since then, college students, although residing longer at their college address instead of their home address, have not been allowed to vote in their college community. Local communities have been successful in keeping the college community from voting in their district. Students live in their college community for nine months out of twelve, pay taxes in that community, and are even counted as residents in that community. However, when election day comes, students cannot vote in that community. Instead, the student has to mail in an absentee ballot from their home district, a district in which they know neither candidates, or issues.

Why does this happen? One reason, according to local governments, is that students only pay in their college community for four years. In a recent survey, it was shown that the average American Family moves EVERY 4 YEARS. If the rules applied to everyone, they do to students, there would be many citizens of this nation who would be unable to vote.

A second reason given by local governments is that students are irresponsible. They feel that students living in their community should be voted with prison inmates, psychiatric patients, and army personnel when it comes time to register to vote. This is absurd. Student are very much so responsible for their actions when they vote. Voting students with the above list is considered an insult to their intelligence.

There is a solution to this problem. Governor Cuomo has introduced into the State Assembly, a bill which would help students. This bill, if it passed, would amend the current Election Laws of our state. The bill would change the section concerning "residence" for purpose of voter eligibility, and part of a section which covers select counties currently allowed when determining residency for voting purposes would be deleted. These changes would allow students to vote in their college community.

Currently, students are being taxed by communities which count them as residents, yet, when it comes time to vote, these students are turned away from the polls in their college community, and forced to vote, ignorantly through an absentee ballot, in the community which they reside in only three months out of twelve. This is taxation without representation, the same thing which made this country fight a revolution against England over 200 years ago. Governor Cuomo's bill which he introduced into the Assembly can change all of this if it is passed. I certainly hope it makes it through.

REAGAN'S PROPOSED CUTS

The following are the federal programs that aid higher education which President Reagan has proposed for elimination in fiscal 1988:

Department of Agriculture—Animal health and disease research, aquaculture research centers, forestry competitive grants, special research grants.
Department of Health and Human Services—Aid to disadvantaged medical students, Area Health Education Centers, exceptional-needs scholarship for health professionals, National Health Service Corps, nursing trainees.
Department of Labor—Federal Unemployment, Student Loans for higher education, work-study programs.

President Reagan wants to spend a lot more at the National Science Foundation and a lot less on student aid and other Education Department programs. The new Congress may go along with him on science, but it is likely to agree on the drastic cuts for education. Source: The Chronicle of Higher Education.
