G. COURSE DESCRIPTION:

This course provides the opportunity to explore diverse perspectives through the lens of religion and spirituality. Using a sociological theoretical framework to center our exploration, we will consider the ways in which religion shapes social identities, focusing on race and ethnicity, class, gender, and sexuality. We will examine the role that religious beliefs have in shaping relationships with power, privilege, oppression, and opportunity, both nationally and globally. Students will critically examine how faith traditions of both the ancient and modern world shape our shared reality.
