STATUSES

A student with a green circle has completed their daily health check and indicates they are asymptomatic. They are free to use campus services and attend in-person classes.

A student with a red circle should be isolated in their home/residence hall room and should not be accessing campus services or attending in-person class.

A student with an orange circle should be quarantined in their home/residence hall room and should not be accessing campus services or attending in-person class.

A student with a black circle has not completed their daily health check-in and must do so before they can access campus services or attend in-person classes.

 Faculty and staff may ask students for their green dot to confirm that they did the daily health check, but they may not ask to see negative test results or other confidential health information from students.
